Comment. The Peruvian Government announced the insurrection in the Arequipa garrison the evening of 27 October. At 0045 [REDACTED] President Bustamante addressed an emergency appeal to the nation over the national radio network.)

1. It was reported that at 2200 hours, [REDACTED] the Arequipa Telephone Exchange was in the hands of the revolutionary forces in Peru headed by General Manuel Odría.
2. So far, other cities are reported to be quiet. The revolt has not yet spread, as was feared, to Puno, Cuzco, and Juliaca.
3. Early in the morning of [REDACTED] the following Peruvians in exile in Bolivia were arrested by police at a control point, Onalito, close to La Paz, while attempting to leave La Paz in civilian clothes: Comandante Alfonso Llosa, leader of the abortive revolutionary attempt in July, Renaldo Rubio, and Ruben Aguilar, all Peruvian Army officers, and Lt. Rafael Cerrano, of the Guardia Civil of Peru. These individuals were attempting to reach Puerto Sosta, Peru, via the Bolivian border. Their baggage contained two sub-machine guns, four clips for them, about 500 bullets, and a large sum of Peruvian and Bolivian money.
4. All of this group are being held incommunicado by the Bolivian police.
